Industry Raps Round Clock Negotiations

BY NORMAN WALKER WASHINGTON (AP) -The chief ndustry negotiator today rejected President Eisennower's call for around-the-clock steel labor negotiations.

R. Conrad Cooper, executive vice president of U.S. Steel, told reporters "continuous hours of meetings do not necessarily mean effective collective hargaining."

Director Joseph F. Finnegan of the Federal Mediation and Conciliation Service, presiding over current peace talks, had indicated he was inclined against trying to force around-the-clock sessions. "Fil schedule meetings as they seem most productive," he said. Eisenhower, in his nationwide address Thursday night called for around-the-clock bargaining to end the steel stalemate. He said the dispute was hampering progress ime the destroyer tried of the entire economy. He called the one-ton capsule to for a prompt settlement, preferably before his return from his three-week goodwill abroad.

Cooper met with Finnegan for nearly two hours this morning. The government peacemaker was to meet with union representatives this afternoon. Further bargaining sessions were indicated Satur-

Mr. A. H. Washburn Hope Star

Hope, Arkansas

Dear Mr. Washburn: We have always heard that there is a little bit of bad in the best of us, or perhaps a little bit of good in the worst of us, but we haven't found anything but good in the very fine church feature page which is published in the Hope Star each week.

We have always sponsored this feature, which is a very definite aid to the program of service offered by every church in our community Actually, we are happy to be a sponsor and we know the other firms are equally happy. As long as the page contains the type of message that it has in the past we will continue to give our support. The art is always good and every message meaningful, dignified and captivating. The feature contains strength and direction we can well afford to live by.

Again, may we say thank you for this page, and especially for the opportunity to help the cause of God and our churches through this combined effort

Yours very truly,
